What You've Been Saying About Mollydooker March 2009

“As a self-proclaimed Connoisseur of Wines, I’ve tried every high-end and expensive wine available. Now that I’ve had Mollydooker, I think it provides a very special and much-needed addition to the wine market. Mollydooker Wines are some of the most amazing wines with awesome ratings, but the best part is that the quality outweighs the price. Mollydooker Wines are a delicious overall experience = AMAZING!” - Mister USA 2008 Ivan Rusiliko

“WOW! is right. Congratulations on these awesome scores (Wine Advocate). And, the decision not to bottle Party Wines, Love Wines or Velvet Glove is certainly newsworthy in the context of commitment to quality and strengthens the story of how Sarah and Sparky are the poster people for Australia's push to be recognized as a high-quality producing country. I am looking forward to hearing from the team about the proposal and getting some of these great stories recognized!” – David Muise, Maine

“Wow! Congrats on your success. You have amazing wines. Best on the planet if you ask me... keep up the good work.” – Chris Morgan, California

“Yeah baby!!!! Love the 'dookers!!!! Love em love em love 'em!!!!!!!!” – Gary Sullivan, Illinois

“Deborah and I wanted to let you know that we had a fantastic time at Mollydooker with you all. It was quite the tour with Janet! She is such a wonderful representative to the Mollydooker people and its wines. We're looking forward to the next time we're in Australia, so we can come visit again.” - Erik Goodmanson, California

“I had the joy of tasting my very first Mollydooker last night -- and what a great experience it was too! The bottle we savoured was a 2007 Two Left Feet (Shiraz, Cabernet, Merlot). Wow. Quite simply superb. Last year I spent 9 months living in Bordeaux - France, and enjoyed some fine experiences - However, the Mollydooker blew me away. I am a convert to the left-handed approach!” – Alexis Biller, England

“The 2006 VG was so impressive I again pre-ordered the 2007 vintage. This wine is incredibly smooth and elegant, yet so concentrated with dark fruits, and red raspberries, espresso, lead pencil, and cinnamon. So for Sparky who always asks that you try and describe their wine in one word, I’m gonna go with “Ridonkulous” [definition] Way beyond "ridiculous", extremely unbelievable. As for the finish I swear I could still taste the wine that night while laying in bed counting purple sheep with four left legs (yes my intoxicated state, the fact that I was too drunk to brush my teeth could also have had a little something to do with that) I did fall asleep with a smile and a mouth that looked like a pen exploded inside it.” – Jay Henchen, New York Check out his blog.....here

“I judge books by their covers, and I judge wine by their labels. I am a sucker for a cute and/or clever label, and I get so disappointed when a great wine has a boring label.....All the Mollydooker wines have a vintage, scrapbook feel. It's a great tasting wine that doesn't take itself too seriously!” – Casey Hooper, Tennessee Check out her blog.....here

“I don't need to praise you (Janet) for the mollydooker wines except to say thanks for the range that you provided yesterday. In short, your wines are stunning and full credit goes to your family and everyone who works within the winery to produce such polished and delicious wines. As a side point, I went to Edinburgh cellars to pick some up directly after the tour yesterday. My brother-in-law who is a religious beer-only drinker had a glass of the 2 Left Feet after much pressure and declared it as the best red wine he'd ever tried. And he's keen to try more! I'm looking forward to ordering and drinking more mollydooker wines when I return to the UK. Thanks again for a fantastic day and I hope to see you again soon.” - David Hale, UK
